

Moms2B is looking for fantastic, energetic volunteers!

Moms2B is a community-based, weekly prenatal education and support program, focused in Columbus' low-income, high-risk neighborhoods. The mission of Moms2B is reduce the incidence of infant mortality in our community.

Moms2B has partnered with The Mid-Ohio Foodbank to bring fresh food to those most in need. Approximately 85% of Moms2B participants report food insecurity within the past year. To combat this crisis, Moms2B hosts four Mobile Produce Markets once a month, allowing program participants the opportunity to receive fresh food.

Moms2B, along with the Mid-Ohio Foodbank, works hard to break the barriers of food access and we need your help! Moms2B is looking for reliable volunteers to assist with these monthly markets and meet our amazing Moms! You will have a chance to work first hand with our food insecure community members, providing them access and availability to fresh foods!

Volunteers can expect to help with program set up and clean up, including unpacking fresh food and assisting program participants with shopping. It's a busy two hours, but very rewarding and a lot of fun!

Please contact Moms2B at Moms2B@osumc.edu or (614) 292-1605 with any interest and for more details, including dates and locations of each market.
